Our mission is to close opportunity disparities through equitable, inclusive, and accessible education, fostering economic independence and sustainable livelihoods. We are dedicated to bridging the gap between academia and industry by integrating real-world skills and innovative practices into our curriculum. A key focus of our programs is to integrate Artificial Intelligence across all our creative courses, equipping our students for the future of work and enabling them to become proficient AI Creative Prompt engineers.

This concept paper outlines TAF College's vision, mission, core values, and the innovative Freelance Futures Program. The program is specifically designed to empower marginalised youth, particularly women, persons with disabilities, and rural communities, helping them build thriving careers and contribute to Ghana's economic growth.

Background and Context

Ghana grapples with a youth unemployment rate exceeding 12%, disproportionately affecting those aged 15 - 35. Despite a growing economy and vibrant creative culture, systemic barriers poverty, limited internet access, and exclusion of marginalised groups, prevent many young people from accessing quality education and professional networks. Africa's youth population, projected to exceed 1.3 billion by 2050, represents both a challenge and an opportunity. The global digital economy offers immense potential, but a disconnect between education and market needs limits participation.

TAF College addresses these challenges by providing market-relevant training in freelancing, a sector poised for growth as businesses increasingly rely on remote talent. Our inclusive programs ensure that underserved communities gain the tools and skills needed to succeed in a digital-first world.

Mission

To empower Ghana's unemployed youth with skills, resources, and opportunities to monetise their creativity through freelancing, fostering economic independence, social inclusion, and sustainable livelihoods.
